Serving God in Uganda

September 3, 2004

Dear Co-laborers,

I am Dr. Kyle Guimon, the project director for the Soroti Orphanage Project in Uganda, Africa. We are church planting missionaries who are training Ugandan pastors from the orphan population of the country. This is a long term project in which we hope to plant many churches. James and Anna Huckabee are preparing to come to Uganda to join us in this endeavor.

I have known James and Anna for over ten years, even before they were married. I have seen much spiritual growth in these young people. I have watched them persevere through many difficult situations. It is people like this who will serve God for a lifetime and not merely a single term. I heartily recommend them to you for any support that you would consider giving them.
